Foreword

There is always something in the glow of lamp light that is wholly absent in light produced mechanically. One may share the light of another’s lamp without losing his own. Sharing the light one has with another increases the light all around.

As lamp light was shared to light the past, so will we share the memories of our school days. When our memories grow hazy through the evolution of life, the pages of this annual will glow with the light from our youth and the memories of our fellow classmates and teachers.
For a period of years, Douglass High School has attempted to give guidance to its students in such a way that their entire scheme of living could be improved. It has been gratifying to find in this process that many youth were happy, ambitious, and hopeful of the future. These persons lived within the school laws; had and continued to have genuine respect for its traditions, and faith in its values to them and to the large area it serves. As Douglass High School bows off the current educational scene, we hope that its memory will be kept strong in the minds of its graduates and former students. May each of them cherish its spirit, its traditions and its ideals.

Dedication

Mr. H. B. Goins

This is a means of expressing our sincere gratitude for the many services, guidance, and initiative that he has shown both to the school and community. His eagerness to help make our high school years successful and enjoyable has made a lasting impression on all of us. We, the senior class of 1955, wish to dedicate this volume of the Oracle to our principal, Mr. H. B. Goins.

As I looked from the balcony of my penthouse on Park Avenue in New York, my thoughts wandered back ten years to the night of graduation at Douglass High. Suddenly a phone call from Nathaniel Logan brought me out of this pleasant nostalgia.

Sandra Terry has the leading role in the latest Broadway hit produced by William St. James. Logan booked the act for three weeks at his Palace theater in St. Louis. All of the members of the senior class of 1955 will be there on the closing night. I hurriedly made the necessary arrangements to be there also.

Planes are really luxurious these days. Louetta Rodgers, the stewardess, spent a few minutes relating her travel experience and enlightened me on her recent engagement to a Parisian designer. Since she had other duties, she promptly pointed out some of the airways steady patrons: Charlie Carr, engineering foreman in the Phillipines; Hillard Scott, the world famous leader of the Scottettes band, and his wife the former Loretha Smart. When the plane taxied on the runway at the airport we said good-by until show time.

I called a cab from the O. B. Cunningham Cab Company to take me to the plush new Canova Hotel. You can imagine my surprise, when the cab driver turned out to be Herbert Roberts. I remembered how much he wanted to become a bookkeeper and accountant. Poor Herbert couldn't count as well as we thought. He said that he was lucky to get a job working at the Cab Company.

Several persons in crisp uniforms drew much attention, since most of us had almost forgotten about wars. Hilra Roach, Jeanette Williams, Darlene Woods and Neal Harris stood out among the guests in the lobby. They didn't remember me at first. After I introduced myself I could hardly answer questions fast enough. I told them about the tour that Harold Scales was making throughout the country with his political campaign manager, Melvin Williams. I also accounted for my engagement ring from Harold, the future president of the United States.

After a bit of refreshing, I relaxed before the T.V. set in my suite to see "Charlie's Hour." I sat there startled as the program progressed with a medley of songs by Charles Brown accompanied by a gala line of chorus girls. I held on to the seat when the sponsors of "Renovating Fluid" Virgil Hudson and Sargee Tate presented their advertisement. Alphonse Young was pouring a liquid into a glass and at the same time saying "Folks why don't you go right down to your nearest drug store and buy some "Renovating Fluid?" Then he gulped the whole glassful in one swallow. "You will get one pint free, if you tell the dealer that Fomie sent you." All of this excitement gave me a headache, so I dressed to go to the drugstore - not to get Renovating Fluid but aspirins.

The druggists were mustached David Woods and his partner Dewitt Davis. Prosperity was evident from the ultra-modern design and the varied selection of articles. They were closing in order to attend the reunion. After looking at photos of Dewitt and David's children I went back to the hotel and dressed for the theater.
The doorman hailed a cab for me. It was Herbert Roberts again. When we arrived at the theater I gave Herbert a ten dollar bill. The cab fare was only a dollar. "Poor Herbie," he had the hardest time trying to subtract one from ten, so I told him to keep the change. No wonder he never became an accountant.

Laughter, sparkling conversations, and bright lights illuminated the theater lobby. Many former classmates beamed and smiled ingratiatingly at each other. Earl Wright, the president of the First National Bank, escorted his secretary Betty Jo Kelly to the affair. Jeanette Johnson and Shirley Taylor were clad in starlight mink. Josie Ingram came in a white Imperial Cadillac with ermine seat covers. Her chauffeur, Nathaniel Warters, was as well off as most middle-class Americans. Marva Rodgers floated in demonstrating her famous legal weapon, the "walk" that won a hundred cases. Charles Flemings observed the whole affair as he did his Las Vegas hotel resort "Flee's Place". Dr. Robert Hollins was taller and more handsome than ever. Janie Reid came with two other nurses Gloria Thornton and Dixie Turner. Arthur Ryland, the prizefighter was unable to escort Janie to the theater.

Some of our former classmates were still very close friends. The "Big Four Quartet", Shirley Hayes, Clemetine Henson, Barbara Wilson, and Earlean Hayes were still close companions. Ruth and Delores dropped in just to say hello. Ruth had to go back to her business school. Delores rolled in on her gold-plated skates between her performances in the "Roller Capades" at the Arena.

Jackie Lawrence, the Disc jockey on the "Jive and Stomp" show in New York rushed out to call the radio station. She explained that Jean Jones had an audition at the Opera and could not come. Jerome Nelson and Robert Bobbitt jumped off the Harlem Globe Trotter's bus and waved at the door while the bus driver kept the motor running. Alice Cooper, famous dress designer, rushed in with Arnette Bowers manager of "Waff Brothers Department Store". As the prelude sounded in the theater we drifted in to take our seats.

We sat through a superb performance, Sandra Terry was at her best as leading lady. Harry Belafonte wasn't so bad either playing opposite Sandra in "South of the Border." I wished it could last for hours. When it ended, I realized that just the performance was worth coming back to Missouri.

After the show everyone rushed to Sandra's dressing room to congratulate her. Our happiness reminded me of graduation night ten years ago. Gloria suggested that we sing our old Alma Mater "Hail to Douglass". Everyone sang with tears in their eyes, except Herbert Roberts. He was standing in a corner still trying to count his money.
Class Will

We, the Senior Class of Douglass High School, of the city of Webster Groves, County of Saint Louis, and the State of Missouri, do hereby leave this last will and testament. We appoint Serena Lindsey as executor of the will.

I, Ruth Mason, leave my office as President of the Student Council to anyone who can meet the qualifications.
I, Dixie Turner, wish to leave my ability to play basketball to Darlyn Drayton and Irma Cole.
I, Dellia Fields, leave my height to Peggy Cox and Marian Patterson, my slimness to Shirley Jefferson and Mary Powell, my unselfishness to Edythe Wandix.
I, Shirley Taylor, wish to leave to Marilyn Johnson my "cool" figure.
I, Marva Rogers, leave to the future American Problems classes my ability to aggravate Mr. Boulding.
I, Charles Carr, leave my capability to "play it cool" to all the boys that don't know how.
Mr. O. B. Cunningham wishes to inform the most beautiful girls at Douglass High that he leaves his most sincere love and devotion.
I, Gloria Thornton, wish to leave my aptitude to speak French to all those who are struggling through Mr. Graham's classes.
I, Herbert Roberts, leave to Mr. Goins and the faculty my appreciation of their efforts in trying to make better citizens, and to the student body best wishes.
We, the "Four Big Times", Shirley Hayes, Barbara Wilson, Earlene Hayes, and Clementean Henson, will to the girls of "Bop Town" the capacity to stick together as we have.
I, Serena Lindsey, will my quality of not becoming CBS, ABC, and NBC to all the hens that go clucking around DHS.
We, Ruth Mason and Delores Martin, leave to all the students that pass through the portals of Douglass the mutual feeling, that there is no better principal than Mr. Goins anywhere.
I, Loretha Smart, leave my ability to excel in many scholastic endeavors to Rudolph Bibbs whose proficiency is exhibited only on the dance floor.
I, Louetta Rodgers, will my modest, reserved, and unassuming disposition to Elaine Smith, who seems to be following in my footsteps already.
I, Jerome Nelson, leave nothing, but take anything that isn't nailed down.
I, Betty Jo Kelly, leave the friendship of Valente Hollins to other victims of her overwhelming personality.
I, Connie Spears, bequeath to Lula Hinkle my method of keeping up with my studies while traveling across the country.
I, Robert Bobbitt, leave my ability to play basketball to Floyd Brinkley.
I, Jeanette Johnson, wish to leave my figure to Gwendolyn Jenkins who is void of curves.
We, Janie Reid and Jean Jones, will the most exciting plan of education at Douglass to Zella Mason.
I, Jeanette Williams, wish to leave my deepest sympathy to the future senior English classes.
I, Sandra Terry, wish to leave my interest in Spanish and the Pan American countries to some worthy student in Mr. Graham's Class.
I, Jacqueline Lawrence, leave my appreciation of the Home Ec. Dept. to the future Home Arts Classes.
I, Mary Alice, leave as a student and hope to return as a teacher.

Acknowledgment

It would have been impossible to produce this annual without the financial and moral support of the June 1954 senior class. From their pioneering spirit in producing a yearbook we have inherited experience in arranging and management. We hope that our book meets the standards initially set up by them. To them from whom we have possessed a great deal, we are heartily grateful.
