WEBSTER GROVES HIGH SCHOOL
Webster Groves, Missouri
Volume XLV
Through the years, the scenes at Webster Groves High School will change; and we shall change. Yet the memories created by our fellowship will remain constant because of the sincerity with which they were endowed.

The Echo is dedicated to the hope that from its pages, we shall ever be reminded of the warmth of true fellowship.
Webster, Alma Mater

Unto thee with joy

We give our hearts and hands;
Striving for thy glory,

We will go and fight,

Obeying thy commands,
Strength thy banner lends us,

Victory sure attends us,

Hail then, hail to thee . . .

Webster, Orange and Black.
Webster, Alma Mater,
Praises we sing thee o'er and o'er.
Fealty now we pledge thee,
Loyalty for ever more!
Every class is unique. Every class makes a distinct contribution to the life, leadership, and history of the school. The Class of 1958 can be proud of its good works and of the chapter which it has added to the life and tradition of Webster Groves High. For each member of the class, may the years invested here be an introduction and a challenge to greater opportunities and to a rewarding life.

Webster Groves High School has been privileged this year to have a Fulbright exchange teacher from Oslo, Norway, Mr. Edvard Fjaertoft, as a world history teacher. Our school sent Mrs. Batts to Norway to take his place.

Mr. Fjaertoft has had an extensive education in his own country and England and is qualified to teach English, German, Norwegian, and history. He attended the University of Oslo, Department of Philosophy, History, and Languages.

In his many talks to student and adult groups, Mr. Fjaertoft has been an excellent promoter of international understanding, and we are grateful to have had him in our school.
Student Government

DAVE HARLAN
School President

BRUCE KNOWLES
Senior School President

BART GUTHRIE
Junior School President
Functioning as the judiciary body of the school was the Student Guidance Council. The council has been a very unique aspect of Webster's student government. As its name implies, its purpose was to guide, not punish; through friendly discussion with students who had broken school rules, the council attempted to show these students their mistakes.

Led by Student Body President Dave Harlan and Senior School President Bruce Knowles, the council was composed of five other members—three seniors, one junior, and one sophomore—who had been elected by their respective grades. They met every other day fifth hour. The first six weeks of school they spent in revising the honor code, which had been begun during the preceding school year. The revised code was presented to the school in an assembly and was then given to the students to be signed.
The originating and activating force of almost all school functions was the Senior Student Council, a legislative and executive body elected by the students. Led by Student Body President Dave Harlan and Senior School President Bruce Knowles and under the sponsorship of Mr. Settle, the Council met every other day.

Council members began the year with Hello Week, which included a Faculty Coke Party and a party for the new students. Magazine Sales came next, followed by Football Week and the Color Day celebration with the annual Pep Rally, Bonfire, and Torchlight parade. Winter events included Basketball-Wrestling Week and the Dance Carnival, while Spring Sports Day came in April.

The Student Council also offered many services to the school throughout the year: sponsorship of the Cheerleaders, a coke machine, administration of school elections, the lost and found, announcement of sports events, and planning of assemblies.

The Junior Student Council, the governing body of the Junior School, consisted of one regular representative and an alternate from each homeroom. These representatives met every Wednesday afternoon after school to discuss any problems which might have arisen and reported to their respective homerooms the following day.

The members tried to encourage attendance at sports events and to boost such student activities as Hi Day, Color Day, and the magazine sales campaign. They served as guides at the annual fall open house and also directed new students at the beginning of the year. The Council also handled the election of the Junior Student President in the spring.
The Monitors were divided into two groups this year: lunchroom monitors and hall monitors. The eighteen lunchroom monitors were under the direction of Miss Brantley, and their job was to supervise the cafeteria during the junior school lunch period. They helped to keep things running smoothly and to maintain order by preventing such practices as cutting in line and buying food for others. They also made sure that the cafeteria was clean and ready for the remaining lunch periods.

Mr. Brucker was in charge of the boys who were stationed in the halls during this lunch period. They helped to cut down confusion by preventing running and pushing in the halls and keeping the students within the restricted areas.

Each of these groups performed an invaluable service. Members carried out their duties efficiently while upholding the outstanding record of their organization.
Education is a great privilege and, as such, it should be appreciated and used to advantage. Every minute spent on education will reward the spender two-fold and materially speaking is one of the best investments possible. The factual and abstract knowledge gained from education, combined with and tempered by experience, will lead to a fuller, happier, and more successful life.

Some hate broccoli,
Some hate bacon,
But I hate having
My picture taken.

—Ogden Nash
The Junior Class can look back on a memorable year, filled with activities organized by the class cabinet and its committees.

In January, with Miss Farmer sponsoring them and Dave Sturges heading the committee, they ordered their class rings, which were received in May.

One of their biggest events, the Junior Prom, was held on March 8. Sandy McMillan, class president, headed the prom committee and crowned Marge Thorpe the Junior Queen of 1958. Her maids were Barb Hays, Pat Edle, Babs Branch, and Ann Werthmueller.

Through the basketball throw in the Dance Carnival and the Junior-Senior basketball game, they raised money for their Senior activities. Having had program planning conferences with Miss Jones, they are anticipating a big Senior year.

The Class of 1960 opened the year by electing John Knudsen president and Phil Page Guidance Council representative. The sophomores were governed by a cabinet consisting of the homeroom presidents.

Soon after the election an assembly was held to acquaint the class with their officers and future plans, which included two get-acquainted "sock-hops."

The sophomores were busy throughout the year. Their enthusiastic support of the "B" team games undoubtedly helped the team earn its wonderful record. The class also sponsored a booth at the Dance Carnival.

The sophomores gave their own talent assembly and in March held a dance, "The Street of Dreams."

This year the Freshmen elected a cabinet as a governing body. Members were Mary Donnell, Judy Koepppe, Dave Lucy, Eddie May, Andrea Post, Laula Reed, and Janet White.

The main activities of the Freshmen were support of C-team sports, the "Fantabulous Fling," a dance given by the cabinet, and conferences to plan senior school programs.

Class of 1962

This year the Class of 1962 chose the cabinet form of government. Sixteen members were chosen, who exercised self-government in their bi-weekly meetings. Cabinet offices were rotated each six weeks for practice in leadership. Besides intramural sports and a class function planned by the cabinet, students held group conferences to plan their future programs.
The seventh graders, under Miss McClain’s counseling, spent most of the year adjusting themselves to their new surroundings. They elected as homeroom presidents George Stalker, Christine Jordan, Gary Long, Bitsy Barrett, David Wheeler, Carl Yandell, Randy Ward, Jary Donnan, and Edward Chism. An enthusiastic group, they have exhibited great possibilities for their future at Webster.
Seventh Grade

Participation in our Webster Groves High School organizations can be filled with rich, educationally sound experiences. The person who experiences this richness is the person who has planned his program in such a way that he meets his activity responsibility without making a scholarship sacrifice. Have you planned your activity program keeping your scholarship responsibility in mind?

Sixty-eighth
Early in the school year, members of The Echo staff began work on the publication of the 1958 yearbook. This year the production of the annual was divided into seven departments: business, advertising, literary, art, circulation, features, and typing.

Regardless of department, each staff member helped by selling yearbooks, advertisements, Turkey Day buttons, and candy at home football games, in addition to working in the bookstore before school. In this manner money was earned for publication.

In accordance with a widespread desire for more informal pictures throughout the book, the Candid Camera Contest was held, giving amateur photographers a chance to win an engraved Echo in return for pictures typical of high school life at Webster.

During the year staff members took time out from their work to enjoy the three main social events of the year—the Christmas party, the annual Echo Coronation and Ball, and a year-end banquet, at which they saw a sneak preview of The 1958 Echo.
It's cold outside.

The ninety member Statesman Show Band, under the capable direction of Mr. Henry Lemcke, had a very successful season. The organization added much color and atmosphere to each of the home football games by providing half time entertainment. Much work went into these programs, and the members practiced several times a week on the field despite cold and mud. The band accompanied the team to several of the away games. Buses were hired for the trip to Alton, where the band added a welcome touch of Webster spirit to the stadium. The season was climaxed by the special Turkey Day show in which the Kirkwood and Webster Bands both played. The band also provided the pep for the torchlight parade to the bonfire.

In the fall members sold chocolate bars very successfully to raise money for future band trips and concert tours.
Fast winning a permanent place in the hearts of Webster students is the Dance Band. During the second year of its existence the band, under the direction of Mr. Walter Lathen, became a familiar sight in the cafeteria before the big football games. Weekly rehearsals were held, and Maggi Kooser was selected as the vocalist for the organization.

An appearance at the Talent Assembly started the second semester activities of the band. Maggi's seasonal rendition of "My Funny Valentine" was echoed down the corridors of the school for days.

Following this the band members played for their parents and later in the spring gave a dance for them. On Brotherhood Day the band visited Soldan-Blewett for a program. The Dance Band also provided the music for the Twin Twirl at the Dance Carnival in March.

This year The Webster Echo again gave its readers complete news coverage in ten issues, with a circulation of 1600 papers a month. All work was planned and carried out by the staff, which met on alternate days.

Publication costs were met by increased advertising, the sale of basketball buttons, the Paper Doll Prom, a rummage sale, and money from magazine sales and activity tickets. The staff room was pepped up this year by new furniture, financed by Turkey Day Programs, which have been published alternately with Kirkwood for the last several years.

At Christmas the staff held an open house for alumni of Webster High and The Webster Echo, and in February they toured Post-Dispatch headquarters for a look at professional methods of publication. To end the year, a banquet was held at which next year's staff was announced.

Burris, Bewig, Brackman, Phemister, Singer, Yost, Dilling, Arndt, Nicholson.
The Varsity Cheerleaders, led by Captain Karen Fredericksen, practiced the cheers regularly throughout the summer and the school year.

They decorated the goalposts before every home football game and organized the parades to football games, which were all very successful, especially the seventy-five car parade to the Turkey Day Game. Toward the end of the football season, the cheerleaders began to use orange and black pompoms in some of the cheers.

Several new chants and four new cheers, Yea Rah, Success, Come on Team, and Coach Yates, were started this year. The Varsity Pep Club was again organized, and it sat next to the Senior Section at home basketball games. A card section was developed by the club.

The Cheerleaders all worked very hard and produced one of the best cheering sections Webster has ever had.
Early in the year the Pep Club drew up a constitution which outlined rules for the remainder of the year. To lead the members in cheers at the games, eight cheerleaders were elected. These were Jane Bodman, Joanne Bryan, Pat Hayward, Carol Keiser, Nancy Piper, Jean Reinhart, Barbara Sue Thompson, and Judy Wood.

The Lollipop Hop, held for members and their dates in January, served not only as a good time for all but also as a means of giving members that “group” feeling.

Throughout the year the members, who sometimes chartered buses for away games, used orange and black shakers to evidence their loyal and enthusiastic support for the teams.

This year's Freshman Pep Club consisted of a spirited group of boys and girls striving to promote more school spirit and support for the "C" football and basketball teams. Over fifty girls tried out for cheerleaders in the first screening, given by student body and faculty representatives. From the twenty finalists these eight were elected: Jane Evans, Beth Harrison, Judy Koepp, Kathy Miller, Joan Rasmussen, Janet White, Barbara Roberts, and Stephanie Thompson.

To stimulate more pep and enthusiasm, a band was provided for one of the games, and buses were chartered for the away games.

In March they held a St. Patrick's Day dance, ending the year with the same high spirit they had displayed throughout.

This year the Senior School Junior Red Cross, sponsored by Miss Campbell and Miss Woods, was again an invaluable aid to the Webster Groves chapter of the Red Cross. To get things started the group conducted its annual membership drive; later it visited the Bethesda-Dilworth Old Folks Home, helped with elementary school Christmas boxes, and helped operate the Bloodmobile. By holding work days, car washes, and bake sales, members financed an overseas gift box and other charitable projects. Two members of the group, Clayton Morse and Leroy Fares, were elected president and treasurer, respectively, of the Red Cross Interschool Council. All in all, the members of this group spent an enjoyable and worthwhile year.

The Junior School Junior Red Cross began its activities in October with the annual membership drive among the students in the seventh, eighth, and ninth grades. To become a member this year, an individual was asked to contribute whatever he wished, instead of a specified amount. This plan was very successful and will probably be repeated in the future.

This year the Webster Groves Junior Red Cross Council was originated. This was a plan to promote better co-operation between the high school branches of the Red Cross in Webster Groves. Two representatives were elected from each grade. The six members from the Junior Red Cross were highly enthusiastic about this idea.

The members of the Junior Red Cross were elected by the homerooms they represented. The meetings were held in the Junior School Library under the sponsorship of Miss Grace.
Of great service to the school was the group of library assistants who worked in the library before and after school and during their study halls, helping the librarians and learning something of the operation of a library. Their many jobs included checking and shelving books and collecting fines. Three of the student librarians spent a great deal of time taking inventory of the fiction and biography sections; this was a tremendous task and was a great help to the library.

The student librarians met once a month, at which time they became better acquainted and discussed library problems. At Christmas time they had their annual party, and later in the spring they all enjoyed a picnic.

Student Librarians

Junior Library Assistants

Checking and shelving books and preparing new copies for the library were among the many jobs which the junior library assistants performed. This group of ten students, who volunteered to help Miss Grace, relieved her of many of the smaller jobs of the library and also gained much library experience for themselves. Following a certain schedule, they took turns working after school.

They held no regular meetings but throughout the year enjoyed themselves at several social events, starting with a Christmas party in December. Later in the winter they all assembled for an ice skating party and in the spring concluded the year with a farewell party.

1958 was a successful year for the Audio-Visual Operators. As in past years, the A.V.O. boys provided learning in the form of movies and records, which were made available to the classes upon the request of the teacher. At all assemblies, school dances, and football games the A.V.O. members were behind the scenes operating the amplifiers.

To raise funds, the club held a cartoon show at both the Dance Carnival and Fun Night. The big event of the year was the association of Webster's A.V.O. Club with the State Audio-Visual Operators' Organization.

The school is truly grateful for the services provided by the A.V.O.

One of the most familiar sights on the Webster scene was the girl who brought in the attendance sheet during first hour. She was only one of a hard-working group known as the office assistants. Everyone took the work they did for granted, but without these girls much of the school business could not have been carried on.

Besides delivering the attendance sheets, these busy girls returned attendance cards to homerooms, delivered messages to teachers and students, collected pink and green slips, showed new students around the building, and ran countless miscellaneous errands.

Office assistants had to give up a study period to work and also maintain good grades. Two girls worked in the office each hour, although sometimes extras were needed. They worked under the direction of Mrs. Nell Bopp, who replaced Miss Howard as the counselors' secretary this year.
Cooperative Occupational Education is a program open to students over sixteen years old which enables them to learn a trade through study and practical experience. The student attends four classes a day. In one, taught by Mr. Trotter, he learns of vocational opportunities in general and acquires knowledge necessary in his specific occupation. The afternoons are spent on the job.

Since the program is conducted both by the school and by local businesses, it offers the student two big advantages: he can continue his education, earning four credits toward graduation for the two years of field work; and he also can obtain occupational training under actual working conditions, receiving wages and applying the knowledge gained in classes.

Some of the various occupations pursued by the students were in grocery, drug, and department stores, banks, doctors' and dentists' offices, floral shops, service stations, machine shops, and printing companies.

This year the Modern Dance Club was composed only of advanced dancers. Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Cissy Perry they met after school on Wednesday afternoons. At these meetings the girls first practiced technique and then worked on their dances. Much of the choreography was done by the members themselves.

The club was divided into two groups: the advanced class composed of thirty-four members, and the dance repertoire group, consisting of thirteen members. Those in the dance repertoire group had originally been in the advanced class and were admitted to the special group on the basis of try-outs.

As in the past few years the Modern Dance Club presented a program in May which involved much preparation. Throughout the school year the dance repertoire group presented several special programs at other schools in the St. Louis area.
The Future Teachers of America is a national organization which promotes teaching as a career. Several speakers, including Mr. Hixson, Mr. Fjaerdt, and Mrs. Richmond, told the members about various phases of teaching. At the Dance Carnival the F. T. A. sponsored the candle-squirt booth, in which contestants tried to put lighted candles out with a water pistol.

The members attended a college Visitation Day in April, in which F. T. A. groups in the area spent the day at Washington University, hearing lectures and attending classes in education. Other activities included visiting a Webster grade school and giving a tea and program for all the F. T. A. groups in the county.

The Bible Club, conducting programs geared to the spiritual life and problems of young people, satisfied a growing demand for instruction in the practical application of religion. The members welcomed anyone in either the Junior or Senior School who wished to join.

Among the interesting and varied programs held this year were special speakers, religious films, and Bible quizzes. For recreation the members held several parties. They also went on camping trips during the spring and summer.

The Bible Club was affiliated with the International Council of Y. F. C., which helped to bring them into closer contact with similar programs for Christian young people throughout the city.

The Y Clubs

Striving "To create, maintain and extend throughout the home, school, and community high standards of Christian character," the Hi Y's and Tri Hi Y's had a profitable year.

The individual clubs had their own plans for service and fun. The senior clubs carried on tradition by compiling the Buzz Book and sponsoring, with Kirkwood, the annual Friendship Dance. The junior clubs edited the Date Slate. The big project of the year for Hi Y 58B was a trip to Washington D. C., financed by numerous projects.

Each club was a member of the Church World Service and the Buildings for Brotherhood Organization, and each sent its new officers to a training conference held at Trout Lodge. A Youth Council consisting of presidents and representatives from each club directed the over-all activities. The Council participated in the Metropolitan Council and in Youth in Government. An induction ceremony was held in the spring.

By far the most memorable event of the year was the new Y.M.C.A. ground-breaking. In this as in all activities, the clubs worked hard to uphold their motto of "Pure thoughts, pure words and pure actions."

Luck has been aptly defined as preparation meeting opportunity. In that sense we wish you much luck, based upon the earnest hope that your High School experiences have soundly initiated understandings of the challenges and obligations of a democracy—the freedom to become ever better prepared to meet the ever-widening opportunities, to more nobly live and serve your fellow-man.

Various speech contests in the St. Louis area marked the year for the members of National Forensic League, a debate and oral interpretation group which met every other day with Mrs. Weirich. Included in their program were contests at Ferguson and Webster, a tournament in extemporaneous speaking, and a tournament at Washington University, which was one of their most important and most successful contests. Another important highlight of the year was KXOK's "Junior Town Meeting of the Air," a debate program presented by four members of N.F.L.

Their social program included an alum tea at Christmas, a dinner given by Mrs. Weirich, and a picnic in the Spring.

This was a year of achievement for the Symphonic Band, under the direction of Mr. Henry Lemcke. The ninety member organization acted as host for the annual Spring Music Festival, which was held at Webster, and many of the band members participated in the All-County Band. At the end of March, following school assemblies, the fourth Annual Pops Concert was given. Two Sunday afternoons were devoted to Spring Concerts. The year was climaxed by a long awaited concert tour to Columbia, Missouri, financed by funds earned in the fall candy sales.

The social activities of the band included a dance in November and the annual picnic at the close of school.

The Concert Orchestra, with its membership of approximately thirty-five, completed a very successful year under the direction of Mr. Adrian Boyer. The members studied a wide variety of music to increase their musical knowledge and to master various techniques. These interested musicians devoted Wednesday afternoons to outside rehearsals and enjoyed both old and contemporary works.

As in past years, the orchestra members participated in the County Music Festival and in the spring gave their annual concert, in which they featured senior soloists. Many of the members were also selected to participate in the All-County Orchestra, and thus they widened their scope of musical experience.

Webster was justly proud of the fine accomplishments of the Concert Orchestra during the year.

Approximately sixty members made up the Junior Band, under the direction of Mr. Walter Lathen. The members, chosen from grades seven through nine, met on alternate days to study the various fundamentals of music. The classes included instruction in theory, tone quality and basic technique, as well as the study of both old and contemporary composers.

Following the pattern set by previous bands, the Junior Band participated in the Annual County Music Festival in the spring. The bands throughout the county were graded on their choice of selections and quality of performance.

In the latter part of April the Junior Band joined with Hixson’s band to give a concert. The program consisted of marches and light numbers as well as some more difficult and less familiar selections.

The big social event of the year was the annual picnic at the close of school.

A Cappella Choir again maintained its reputation as one of Webster's outstanding organizations, with one hundred sixteen enthusiastic members meeting daily in room 117. Members began the year with an evening of humorous skits and singing at the Runks' house. Highlighting the fall was the acquisition of new royal blue robes with white satin linings and monogrammed stoles. The Christmas season was enriched with the traditional Vesper services given for the students and the public and, on the lighter side, a fun assembly and an alum sing were held. Throughout the year the choir entertained P. T. A. and civic groups. In March under Miss Replogle's direction they publically presented a program featuring several Easter selections.

Beginning Choir enjoyed a successful year, aiming to sound like Advanced Choir when the year ended. Their diligence was rewarded by their beautiful performance in Vespers. These services acquired more meaning for the newer members by their participation in one of Webster's best loved traditions.

After Vespers they worked on songs for spring programs, some of which were a Lenten service at the First Congregational Church, a Hixson Junior High assembly, and "George Hanson Day", honoring the retirement of Goodall School's principal. Two social events were the fall skit party and spring picnic.

In the words of their director, Miss Replogle, they are "good readers" and "swell kids" and will make fine Advanced Choir members.
The spring of 1958 was highlighted by All The Way In Song, a choral concert given March 28 and 29 by the A Cappella Choir.

Dressed in tuxedos and spring dresses, the choir presented an evening’s entertainment of song and dance. The lively and varied program featured patriotic selections, a group of love songs, religious hymns, Negro spirituals, and stunt and comedy numbers. The singing was enhanced by unusual stage settings and lighting effects, and was inter-mingled with several solo and small group selections. One of these, a “Rhapsody in Blue” number, featured a ballet and a piano solo.

Under the direction of Miss Esther Replogle, the program was preceded by several months of hard work. Mrs. Harold Pate handled the choreography and Mrs. Richard Swartz was in charge of costuming. Advertising and tickets were managed by members of choir.

"All The Way in Song"
The singing of three choirs told once again the story of the birth of Christ in this year’s Vesper service. With its shepherd and nativity scenes, portrayed by high school students, and its beautiful Christmas songs, this service marked for many people in the community the beginning of the Christmas season.

Vespers is a cherished tradition in Webster. It began many years ago, under the direction of Miss Replogle, as a simple Christmas pageant and grew to the proportions of 1957 Vespers, which involved five performances, over 350 people, and a great deal of hard work. Besides the Beginning and Advanced A Cappella Choirs, the Boy Choir, the Angel Chorus, and a cast of twenty-six, many “behind the scenes” people were a part of Vespers, including the stage crew, lighting crew, ushers, prop people, and make-up crew.
This year, as has been the custom since 1927, the Webster high school students who had done outstanding work in some field of high school journalism and who had maintained a grade average which placed them in the upper third of their class were given the opportunity of joining Quill and Scroll, the international honor society. After fulfilling these qualifications, the initiates, who were selected from the staffs of The Echo and The Webster Echo, were recommended for membership by a supervisor of high school journalism. These recommendations were then approved by a national officer of Quill and Scroll. Invitations were issued to the candidates in late February, and the initiation was held in April.

Webster Groves High School's chapter of Quill and Scroll was formed in 1927 and was named after Joseph Pulitzer, who was the founder of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.
The journalism class prepared itself for publishing The Webster Echo next year by learning the fundamentals of good newswriting and the mechanics of newspaper production. By learning how to edit, proofread, and manipulate headlines, the students hoped to be ready for their future job.

Students also helped with regular staff work by selling advertisements and covering assigned "new beats." This new system helped give more complete school news coverage.

In addition to helping staff members with the Paper Doll Prom, the Alumni tea, and the Dance Carnival booth, journalism students attended two conventions, one at Columbia, Missouri, and the other at Washington University. They also enjoyed seeing several fellow students on television in connection with the St. Louis convention.

In the spring journalism students attended a banquet at which the staff of next year's paper was announced.

The '58 Players promoted interest in the dramatic arts by holding classes for the members in makeup, lighting, and other technical aspects of the theatre. The members also attended plays produced by other high schools in the area and entered interpretive reading contests, in which they received high ratings.

The main activity of the club was the annual Student Production, Reclining Figure, in which students, who usually handle management, took over the entire direction of the play. In this experimental play new people gained experience, and new ideas were tested. Mrs. Fredericksen, who took over this year in the absence of Mr. Gilmore, was the head of the entire Dramatics Department.

Thespians is a national honorary society for high school students who show outstanding ability and interest in dramatics. It is named after Thespus, the first Greek playwright to use actors in a play. Thespian Troupe 191 has been active ever since it was founded here by Eugene Wood in 1932.

To become a Thespian, an individual must devote one hundred hours to dramatics. Of these, at least thirty must be in production work. When an individual has accumulated five hundred hours, he becomes an Honor Thespian. This year, out of about thirty Thespians, six were Honor Thespians. Initiations were held after each major production. The Thespians, backbone of the Dramatics Department, co-ordinated their activities with the Dramatics Club.
Kind Lady, a melodrama adapted by Edward Chodorov from a story by Hugh Walpole, took place in London. It concerned a woman who was taken in by a family of clever crooks. The crooks' leader, Henry Abbott, masterminded a plot to cut her off from her family and friends by convincing them that she was insane. This exciting mystery built up until even the lady herself almost believed Abbott's tale. She finally managed to get word of her predicament to the outside world, and the play ended on the assumption that she would be saved.

Death Takes a Holiday was adapted for the American stage by Walter Ferris from the Italian play by Alberto Cassella. It was based on the idea that Death ceased all activity for three days, during which time he fell in love with a beautiful girl. Through her he achieved the purpose of his holiday: to discover why mortals feared him. While the mood of the play was rather eerie, it was full of excitement and formed a perfect background for the love story. Death was pictured as very human and not completely surrounded by mystery and superstition. A novel philosophy of love and death was presented in the play.

The Great Sebastians, a melodramatic comedy by Lindsay and Crouse, concerned Essie and Rudi Sebastian, a mindreading team. They had arrived in Prague just in time for the Communist upsurge and the alleged suicide of their friend Jan Masaryk, the head of the former government. Since the Sebastians had dined with Masaryk the day before his death, the Communists asked them to state publicity that he had seemed depressed. The Sebastians refused to do this and consequently were arrested, and their life savings, in the form of a valuable stamp, were taken by the Communists. They finally escaped with the stamp, however, and the play ended happily.
This play was extremely difficult from a technical angle, because it required three complete sets and contained an unrehearsed mindreading act in which no one was planted in the audience. Webster was one of the first high schools in the country to produce it.

Both of the following plays are student productions which were directed by Bud Welz. There was no adult supervisor for either one. This gave the students a chance to use their creative and interpretive ability in producing a play.

In Sight Unseen, a farce by Foster and Law, Lady Judith Elliott inherited a large English manor house and with it three ghosts. An American woman wanted to buy the house because she was interested in psychic forces, but the ghosts objected to this investigation and refused to appear at a seance. Lady Judith fell in love with the American lady's nephew, but nearly lost both him and the sale when a fake spirit was exposed. However, the play ended in a happy and hilarious romp.

Reclining Figure was a satire by Harry Kunritz on the activities of art collectors and dealers. In the play a gullible millionaire who was fond of collecting the recent masters ran afoul of a shady dealer who cried like a baby when people bought his treasures. The dealer was aided by a "restorer" with a talent for forgery. An honest young salesman exposed the two and, as a result, won the hand of the millionaire's niece, Cassy.

Conventus Latinus, one of Webster High's largest organizations, added ninety-two new members this year. Meetings were highlighted by a talent show and two guest speakers, Dr. McCallister and Mr. Fjaertoft. Club members also raised money for Farmington Orphanage at Christmas, and attended the Missouri Junior Classical League convention in Columbia. The year was climaxed by the election of new officers and the annual spring banquet.
1958 was another successful year for Latinus Rumor, begun in 1927 as a Latin Club project. Averaging between eight and twelve pages monthly, it included letters from alums, an exchange column, and Cartha Marr’s opinions. Each issue featured a special article, such as a daily account of the National J. C. L. Convention in Colorado Springs, Colorado, and informative articles about Roman gods and customs.

Latinus Rumor was sent to many alums and was exchanged with Latin papers from schools in over fifteen states. From these papers, excerpts were printed in the exchange column. Articles were also submitted to The National Torch, the national Latin paper.

The aim of the German Club was to improve spoken German and the knowledge of German culture through sources other than the classroom. At their biweekly meetings the members played German games and learned many songs. Because chess is such a widely known international game, the club sponsored a chess tournament.

In the true spirit of Christmas the club lighted the candles during the four week Advent and climaxed the season with a party at which they served German pastries, played games, and sang carols.

A highlight of the year was a trip to the Art Museum to see German art.

What is the aim of Webster's Special Education program? How do these classes differ from the regular school curriculum? The object of Special Education is the same as that of the normal school program: to develop acceptable, self-supporting, and contributing members of the community, students who will be ready to take their places in the social world by the time they have completed their education. The differences in Special Education lie only in the content of the material and the method of its presentation.

Special Education is far from an extra-curricular activity. This type of program offers education to those students who have difficulty in adjusting to the regular school program and are not able to benefit from it. Each student has problems in certain phases of learning. Some have difficulty in reading; others in the understanding of arithmetic. These difficulties are not by-passed but are approached in relation to the individual needs. Many students, more than regular students, also have social problems which Special Education attempts to meet.

The classes are designed so that a student may achieve maximum learning without the pressures and competition found in the regular classroom. The enrollment is limited to enable the students to receive more individual attention, and the materials are adjusted to the abilities of the students.

This program in Special Education was conducted for the first time at Webster this year, with Mr. Walter Gail in charge of the classes. It is a program which has filled a great need in Webster's school system.
From the field of athletics, three qualities necessary for success in today's business world can be acquired. These are: a competitive spirit, integrity and a sense of fair play in relations with others, and the cooperation necessary for effective teamwork. High school athletics should be only the beginning of the development of these qualities.

Bruce Knowles
President of the Senior School
The 1957 gridiron squad was the smallest in size and number that Webster has had in recent years. Yet coach Ray Moss pretty well summed up the year when he said: "Although the team was small in size, they were high in spirit. They never gave up and improved steadily as the season progressed."

Webster lost its opener to a rugged Alton team 28-0, but came back to tie powerful Quincy, Illinois, 6-6. During the season they went on to win over Springfield, University City, and Maplewood.

Junior Bob Brown, who did an outstanding job at tackle, drew much favorable comment from all opponents, as did seniors Gene McArtor, Dave Harlan and Ronnie Thalman. Nelson Crenshaw and Barnett Reeves were explosive backfield threats. Dave Dysart's fine action was a great asset to the team, along with the yard gaining ability of Bob Charow.

The highpoint of the season came with a weekend trip to Columbia, Missouri.

One Hundred Twenty
The 1957-58 buckets squad, in the words of coach Tyke Yates, "was just a half step away from greatness." Offensively the team surpassed all Webster teams of the past, averaging just under 70 points a game. Jon Larson’s 504 points, Mike Ramming’s 413, John Russell’s 253, and Dave Siegmund’s 262 helped to amass this total.

The feats of this squad included a first place in the Suburban League Tournament and a second place in Suburban League play. The team also tied the scoring record for a Webster team in one game by pouring through 99 points against Mehlville in the Regional Tournament.

Webster won its first game in the regionals but lost to a determined Maplewood squad in the semi-finals. The team was greatly hampered by the lengthy illness of Dave Siegmund, who was unable to play in the season’s stretch drive.

Following the tournament, Bob Monroe was elected captain for 1957-58.

Although swimming is one of the oldest sports known to man, it is a relatively new sport in Webster High school. This is only the second season that Webster has been represented by a team. Nevertheless, the Webster water men have more than held their own in interscholastic competition. They won three out of four dual meets and placed second in two larger invitational meets, the Normandy invitational and the Suburban League championships. They completed the high school swimming season by placing third in the state meet. The team was composed primarily of underclassmen, so another good season may be expected next year.

Although hampered by rainy days and muddy golf courses, Webster's golf team had a commendable season in 1957. The Statesmen compiled a record of four wins and three losses. The spring season was completed when the team took second place in the St. Louis district tournament.

Since golf is a sport which is increasing in popularity in Missouri, Regionals were held preliminary to the state tournament for the first time in 1957. The Webster team attended these regionals last fall and qualified for State, in which they were quite successful, winning fourth place.

With several returning lettermen, we are expecting 1958's team to meet Webster's always high standards for golf.
Tennis in Webster High School is rapidly increasing in popularity. With this increase in popularity, the ability of Webster's players is also becoming greater. Last year's tennis team was perhaps the most successful of all our athletic teams.

The team captured two trophies and the Suburban League championship. The first of these trophies was for the State Doubles championship, won by Jerry Johnson and Jim Bryan. The second was for first place in the Suburban League tournament. Jerry Regenstein and Warren Townsend won the doubles division of this tournament.

Since last year's team was composed entirely of freshmen, sophomores, and juniors, all the same players may be expected back. Although there will be stiff competition, with this material the tennis team should have another outstanding season in 1958.

Field hockey, in its thirtieth year at Webster, proved as popular this year as always. Many girls took part in the intramural program, but those who were especially interested attended coaching sessions at Blackburn Park. Most girls found that these training sessions were a tremendous help in improving their skills.

The hockey class teams were chosen from those girls who had gone out for coaching. The varsity team, which was chosen later in the season, consisted of the best players on the three class teams. The varsity this year didn’t have as good a season as expected; however, they tied both Bayless and Kirkwood, although they lost to University City.

Hockey is one of the most exhausting sports offered. In addition to physical endurance, it requires coordination, quick thinking, exact timing, and good team play.

The intramural and coaching programs in basketball again attracted many girls. Those who participated in the intramural program were divided into teams. These teams then competed among themselves in a tournament.

Those interested in coaching were given skill tests, and the girls who made the highest scores were chosen for this group. At the coaching sessions the players learned and coordinated new passing plays as well as perfecting their shooting and defensive skills. This group was "cut" until the number needed for the class teams was left. The varsity team was made up of the best players on the class teams.

In the middle of February the annual St. Louis County Sports Day was again held at Webster. Several county schools sent teams, and many girls from Webster participated both as players and as hostesses.
Last year for the first time volleyball was divided into coaching and intramurals. Those girls who made the highest scores on skill tests were put in coaching, while the others participated in intramurals. The class teams were chosen from those girls attending coaching, and they, as well as the varsity team, played teams from several other county high schools.

Great emphasis was placed on the fundamental skills of volleyball: spiking, serving, and the set-up. Everyone had a chance to use them, as the teams rotated position during the games.

To compete in this sport the girls found that they must be agile and alert. In volleyball, as in most sports, a competitive spirit and good sportsmanship prevailed.

The coming of spring means another softball season to many Webster girls. As the last sport each year, it is the final chance for girls to make points.

Last year softball, like the other sports, was divided into coaching and intramurals. For participating in either of these, girls received 50 points toward a G.A.A. award. From participants of coaching the class teams were chosen. Girls on these teams earned an extra 100 points, while those on the varsity team, which was composed of the best players on the class teams, received another 50 points.

The class and varsity games were played at Blackburn Park, while coaching and intramurals were held on the fields behind the school. Among the games played last year, the varsity lost to Riverview Gardens 1-8, but recovered in time to beat University City 16 to 4.

Bowling has become a very popular sport at Webster, and this year, as in past years, many girls participated in it. Membership in G. A. A. was the only requirement for participation. Two tournaments were held, one each semester, with the teams, each made up of five girls, bowling on alternate Mondays after school. Each tournament consisted of six rounds. Teams as well as individual bowlers competed for the highest averages. After each round the names of high scorers were posted in the gym.

The tournaments were held at the Brentwood Bowling Lanes. Before the fall tournament the bowling alley offered a special program, which included a film and literature, to help the girls improve their bowling skill and learn more about bowling etiquette. Girls who attended this program were very enthusiastic and felt it was a wonderful opportunity.

The Girls' Athletic Association, with over two hundred members, was one of the most active organizations at Webster this year. The members operated the snack truck at home football games and participated in bowling tournaments each semester. Other activities included the Coke Party for new girls, Dad's Night, initiation of new members, and the Mother-Daughter Banquet. The G.A.A. also sponsored the Kampus King dance. Five Senior boys were chosen by the members as Jacks, and the Senior School girls chose one of these as Kampus King. During the year several bake sales and other projects were held to raise money for a trampolin for the Senior Girls' Gym.

The Senior Student Council of 1955 established an award to recognize seniors for outstanding performance in the fields of leadership, scholarship, sportsmanship, and service. The award is named in honor of Mr. James T. Hixson who for thirty-six years served as principal of Webster High School. The life of the award is ten years. Each winner is presented with an engraved certificate, and his name is inscribed upon a trophy which is the permanent property of the high school.

To be eligible for an award, a senior must present the general qualifications of having maintained a 2.0 or better scholastic average and of having attended Webster Groves High School during both his junior and senior years.

The winners of the Scholarship Award shall be the highest ranking boy and the highest ranking girl in the graduating class. One Sportsmanship Award shall be given to the boy who wins the Roberts Trophy. The other Sportsmanship Award shall be given to a girl chosen in the following manner: senior girls who have accumulated at least one thousand points shall nominate five of their number; a faculty committee shall choose as winner one girl from this list of candidates. In the fields of Leadership and Service, the Senior Class shall nominate five boys and five girls on the basis of their qualifications in the respective fields; a faculty committee shall choose as winners one boy and one girl from each list of nominees.
Every year the Senior Class selects twenty members of its group, ten boys and ten girls, as those students who have made outstanding contributions to their school through leadership, scholarship, and citizenship.

Presented here are the twenty outstanding seniors of the class of 1958.

We, the privileged seniors of the class of ’58, having been endowed with phenomenal ability since first we entered the hallowed halls of Webster, have, upon much deliberation, decided to disclose the secret of our hitherto unmatched success to all future classes of loyal and grubby Websterites.

As evidenced by these photographs, the members of the class of ’58 early showed the qualities of intelligence, ability, and seriousness of purpose which have been so essential to their success.

Building on such staunch foundations, one of the contributing factors to our success has been the “Code of Ethics” which was laid down for us when we were trusting little eighth graders. Since that momentous day we have adhered strictly and steadfastly to such principles as: “Party crashers should not be tolerated” and all parties should “terminate not later than 11:00 P.M.” We took to heart the warning that “late meandering can become a dangerous habit, tends to create an undesirable reputation, and should be forbidden”. We also faithfully obey the Code’s instructions to “behave with reasonable restraint when riding in a car”. Our moral standards raised to an inspiring height, we likewise continued to grow in wisdom.
Our teachers, a constant source of wisdom and knowledge, were an invaluable help to us. We can never forget such memorable words as:

Miss Schowengerdt: “Test formation, please!”

Mr. Settle: “I’m not going to do anything. You’re doing it!”

Miss Farmer: “I have a few Latin Club matters to take care of.”

Miss Replogle: “That’s much more better!”

Mr. Gaines: “You new around here?”

The immediate results of this excellent background and fine education are apparent in the many outstanding achievements of our class. Our "C" football team is one of few Webster teams to have distinguished itself by winning no games. The lowest possible score on College Boards used to be 200; it’s now 0. And has there ever been another junior picnic which, much-publicized, much-organized, and duly recorded in the annual, completely failed to take place? Has any class been so successful in spreading a measles epidemic? With these remarkable feats in mind, we can’t help but consider ourselves a true paragon for graduating classes.

As such, we would like to offer a few words of friendly advice to the struggling underclassmen, striving so vigorously to follow in our footsteps. There are a few improvements which might be made in the school:

IMPROVEMENTS IN POETIC FORM

Escalators instead of stairs;
Soft seat-cushions for our chairs;
Fewer teachers, a shorter day;
All our homework with hourly pay.

Better food at no more cost;
All our sorrow would be lost.
Waitresses to serve our lunch—
Better “lunchmeat” we could munch.

---

Alert! Intelligent! Fearless!

JUST REMEMBER THERE ARE OTHER THINGS IN LIFE BESIDES MONEY . . .

- Poverty . . .
- Loneliness . . .
- Starvation . . .
- Sickness . . .

Stenographers to write our themes,
Another of our little schemes.
Lots of loitering in the halls
Gives boys time to walk their dolls.

Breakfast served each day first hour,
This will give us extra power.
Everyone should get all A’s,
This will help in many ways.

These suggestions we have made,
They should really be an aid.
Listen to this story well,
Good ideas we’ve to tell.

Our poetry is at an end,
To these thoughts please please atten.d
Reform is now not yet too late,
Best wishes from class of ’58.
Underclassmen beware: We, as seniors, are deeply concerned about the failure of younger students to assume the air of groggy nonchalance so vital to being successful Websterites. We have, however, found two excellent embodiments of such an attitude among the juniors. In example one you will please notice the deep but alas futile self-confidence found in the face of this youngster who thinks he's going to graduate. Example two illustrates the great strength and spirit found in all enthusiastic statesmen. So take heed, lowly ones, in order that your class may some day rank on the same level as ours. (Ugh!)

I can't see why they spell psychology with a "p", it psure pseems psilly to me.

"I would like to demonstrate what's on my mind," said Mr. Kleyboecker as he erased the board.

The more you study, the more you learn.
The more you learn, the more you know.
The more you know, the more you forget.
The more you forget, the less you know.
So why study?
