“Despite whatever agreement there may be between some of us, let us never forget that we are all working wholeheartedly and humbly for the same goal—a country of peace, abundance and prosperity—for all of our people of all races, of all groups—whoever they may be, wherever they may live.”

— Chester Bowles
Dedication

One goal of life is the acquisition and application of knowledge. Our current endeavor is to gain the knowledge which will guide us throughout our lives; for, "although a wise man may be strong, a man who has knowledge increases his strength."

It is to Knowledge that we dedicate The Echo of nineteen hundred and sixty one.
"By the work one knows the workman."
— Jean De La Fontaine
“Opportunity knocks as often as a man has an ear trained to hear her, an eye trained to see her, a hand trained to grasp her, and a head trained to utilize her.”

— B. C. Forbes
"The test of leadership is not to put greatness into humanity, but to elicit it, for the greatness is already there."

— John Buchan
"We have committed the Golden Rule to memory. Let us now commit it to life."

— Edwin Markham

JAMES T. HIXSON
1874-1960
PRINCIPAL OF WEBSTER GROVES HIGH SCHOOL 1907-1943

Scholar and teacher, guide and counselor of youth, he inspired those who studied and taught under his leadership to strive for excellence in all things and to love virtue in the conduct of life. His enthusiasm for sports, his love of true scholarship, his interest in the welfare and character of young people were unabated throughout his long and dedicated life. So deep was his interest in individuals that he never was known to forget a face or a name. His wisdom, seasoned with a quiet sense of humor, made him a loved and respected friend.
"Oh, no, not a girl ... ." This might have been a common exclamation from some dubious male prior to his encounter with Miss Barbara Renner. Yes, Barbara is President of Webster Groves High School and its Student Council.

In her term of office she contributed many improvements to student administration. Her position required her to participate in the Council's many committees and to preside over school assemblies.

Barbara assumed her responsible position with dignity and the school is proud of her achievements. Barbara's accomplishments have certainly changed some male viewpoints on the subject of girl leadership.

Skip Davis has filled the new office of Vice-President with confidence and responsibility. His contributions to the school are numerous. He presided over the Guidance Council and helped in several of the Student Council committees.

Skip was co-chairman of the Magazine Sales Committee and aided in various other programs.
Student Council

Under the leadership of Barbara Renner, the first president of the Webster Groves Senior High, the Student Council met every other day to deal with the ever rising problems of the school. Although many new things were initiated, most of the old traditional council activities were the same.

Financially speaking, a successful Magazine Sales Campaign, a pancake supper, and a profit on the individual pictures of juniors and sophomores put the council well "in the black."

The Faculty-Council coke party and the council Alum party were both huge successes. Convertibles were added to the "senior school only" torchlight parade this year. The football maids rode just behind the band and the cheerleaders from each grade led their respective classes. Changing tradition, the carnival was omitted from the Dance-Carnival, and the dance was held in Roberts Gym with "Jabberwocky" as the theme.

Webster again supported a foreign exchange student, Eva Volk, from Germany. Eva was an active member of the Council, and in this way, she learned about student government. The Council has contracted for another foreign student.

Promoting good foreign relations, Webster had a joint council meeting with Kirkwood. In the spring, the council played host to the Suburban Association of Student Councils and at the last meeting Webster was elected president of the association.

The Guidance Council again presented an impressive example of the honor system in action. A close look reveals the dread Council to be ordinary Webster Students. Well, not ordinary... they’re a serious group of students with a serious purpose. The Council is composed of seven elected members including one sophomore, one junior, three seniors, and the President and Vice-President of the school.

This year the Honor Code contained some new additions and changes. Ninety-five per cent of the student body demonstrated their faith in the honor system and Guidance Council by endorsing this new code. The code included a new clause about cheating. The harsh sounding “no running” was changed to “walk to lunch and in the halls.”

The Guidance Council, under the watchful eye of our school Vice-President, Skip Davis, fulfills its worthy purpose. It reviews a student’s mistake and helps him to understand his offense. It has greatly improved the student conduct as its influence has grown.

Renner, Kerwin, Davis, Risk, Drake, Barnett.
"Beauty and the books."
"Huh?"
"What a display of . . . !"

"Receiving, the root of all evil."
"Don't you know you can only buy your own pickles?"
"Come on now—let's get this settled!"

"Gasping Frank and Froggy."

Each class makes its contribution to school life. The members of each class spend their time acquiring knowledge — academic knowledge and social knowledge. Class members from foreign countries further enrich our scholastic experience by giving us contacts with people of other lands and ways of life different from our own.

“Hey, there’s our foreign exchange student.” This is the statement Eva Volk may have heard from many interested Webster High students while walking through the halls.

Eva, an only child, lives with her mother and her father, the manager of a publishing house, in Ravensburg, Germany. She attends the North Germany Madchengymnasium, or high school, where she is in the mathematical line. Some of the courses Eva has taken there are German, French, Latin, which is optional, English, physics, chemistry, mathematics, biology, religion, and history. All together she studies fifteen courses.

There are no extracurricular activities in the school, so Eva is able to devote much of her time to swimming and skating, which she enjoys very much.

Eva has spent many interesting summers in travel. One summer she was with a friend in Switzerland. Other times she visited Paris and cities in Italy.

When she arrived in this country, she was welcomed to Webster by the Gormans and the Student Council. During her year in Webster High, Eva studied French, English, American problems, American history, and college algebra, and she also has been an active member in several organizations.

Eva, we the students of Webster High hope your visit with us has been both profitable and enjoyable.
OTHER FOREIGN STUDENTS

Webster was fortunate to have five of its own students go abroad the summer and fall of 1960.

Lucy Mueller, Jim Robison, and Jennifer Davis attended the World Youth Conference in Amsterdam, Holland. There were six hundred eighty-five youths representing forty-five different countries. After the conference, they toured England, Holland, Belgium, Germany, Austria, Italy, Switzerland, and France. Their trip was made possible by the Y.M.C.A.

Mary Rankin, another one of our students who went abroad, spent the summer in a cottage on a lake outside of Helsinki, Finland. She lived with her father, the managing director of a lumber firm, her mother, and her sister, Eeva. Mary swam, read, and just took it easy the three months she was in Finland with the Hallbergs.

David Hopmann, like Mary, was an American Field Service student. He spent the summer and the first semester of this school year in Harstad, Norway. Harstad is 150 miles north of the Arctic Circle which is known as North Norway. David lived with the Ytterstad family, his father, the community treasurer, his mother, harbor office worker, his two brothers, Conrad twenty-one and Buddy seventeen, and his sister, Anne ten.

David went to the gymnasium there where he was in the language line. Some of his courses were English, French, two kinds of Norwegian, European history, mathematics, religion, and music. After school, there were no extracurricular activities. David and his brother spent much of their spare time ice skating, fishing, bicycling, or going to movies and parties.

The variety of activities at Webster offers the students many opportunities to increase their knowledge in their own particular fields of interest. It is through the clubs and organizations that we further our knowledge of the advantages and responsibilities of group action, come to appreciate the efforts and achievements of our fellow students, and grow in friendships.

“It’s new; it’s different; it’s the 1961 Echo.” That is the line the members of The Echo staff had in mind in planning the book this year. For the first time, The Echo has individual pictures of the underclassmen. Many hours of work went into organizing and identifying pictures, writing articles, and selling advertisements to complete this “masterpiece.”

The staff members undertook many money-making projects to finance this book. Among these were selling candy at all the football games, selling “Webster Statesmen” car stickers, and selling one thousand Turkey Day buttons. However, the biggest project of the year was the Echo Coronation. The entire staff worked together to make this one of the highlights of 1961.

“All work and no play makes The Echo a dull staff” was another motto of the staff. Santa Claus paid a visit to the staff this year, as he has done in previous years, and brought little gifts to everyone. Springtime brought the annual banquet at which each staff member received his copy of The Echo.

The Echo of 1961 is new and different, and the staff sincerely hopes that it will bring back fond memories to those who browse through it in the years to come.

“Sticky, isn’t it?”
“I know he wasn’t an A.V.O. boy in tenth grade!”
“Future Mailmen of America.”
Several changes have taken place in The Webster Echo. By dividing into two staffs—editorial and business—greater efficiency was achieved, and the staffs worked toward a goal of one issue every two weeks. Two special issues were printed—an orange Turkey-Day paper and the national election issue, which "scooped" the Globe-Democrat by three hours in reporting Kennedy's election. Also, in order to raise money, a Christmas postal service was initiated. Programs for the Turkey Day game were provided by the staff.

In November, members of the staff won the sweepstakes plaque for journalistic writing at the State Journalism Convention held in Columbia. A week later they tied for third place in the sweepstakes at the Washington University Conference.

Besides sponsoring the Paper Doll Prom, the staff gave an alum tea during the Christmas Holidays and occasional parties at various other times. The staff for next year was announced at the annual spring banquet.

This merry group started the year by being formally introduced into the inner sanctum of journalism by the dreaded green-and-white journalism workbooks. After mastering the fundamentals a good journalism cub should know, they began covering beats and writing articles for The Webster Echo, preparing for the time when they would step into official positions on the paper staff. By the end of the year they had behind them about 140,000 words of copy, and were in a position to be considered full-fledged Webster Echo newspapermen.

In addition to writing, the J-cubs had many other activities. They worked on the Paper Doll Prom and Alumni Tea, attended folding parties, and held a rummage sale. In the fall they attended two journalism conventions where they helped to win high honors for Webster.
The Webster Chapter of Quill and Scroll, of the International Honorary Society for High School Journalists, is now in its thirty-fourth year as an active organization.

The members of this group are members of The Echo and The Webster Echo staffs who have done outstanding work in one of the fields of writing, editing, and business management. In addition, members must have maintained a grade average which places them in the upper third of their class, must be recommended by the adviser of their publication, and be approved by an officer of the National Chapter.

Candidates for membership receive invitations in the spring of the year. The initiation is held a few weeks later. The ceremony is a formal one, and parents of the candidates are invited to attend.
"Resolved: That the United Nations should be significantly strengthened," was the proposition that was foremost in the minds of N. F. L. members. Webster's debaters argued this question pro and con at the Webster High discussion tournament, on Junior Town Meeting of the Air, at the Webster Sweepstakes Tournament, and at various other tournaments. In December, Charles Brock and Lucy Mueller carried the question to Purdue University, where they successfully expounded an affirmative argument. The Webster chapter was one of very few schools chosen to attend this debate, and the chapter has been gaining national distinction in several other ways, such as being included in several surveys by leading colleges.

Just before the election, the N.F.L. organization gave several assemblies. Various campaign issues were discussed for social studies classes, and an assembly depicting elections in general was presented to the school. The debaters found time to include a fall picnic, a Christmas alum party, and some spring parties in their busy schedule.

That puzzled student scratching his head as he surveyed a thin leaflet bearing marks resembling Egyptian hieroglyphics was probably a senior math student studying the latest issue of Mathematical Log, the journal of Mu Alpha Theta, national high school and junior college math society. Webster's chapter, in its second year, devoted regular meetings to lectures on mathematical topics by outstanding math instructors in the St. Louis area.

The club also continued to offer tutoring in math to interested students. The proceeds from this service were devoted to improving the math corner in the school library.

The purpose of the F.T.A. is to acquaint all girls who plan to become teachers with the necessary degrees and problems of teaching.

Meeting twice a month, the members watched movies, participated in panel discussions, or visited various schools in the St. Louis area. The first of these visits, to the Gallaudet School for the Deaf in December, proved to be one of their more valuable experiences. In April the group attended Campus Day at Washington University, and they also participated in a workshop for all the F. T. A. groups in the county. A visit to a Webster Grade School and a tea for all the F. T. A. groups in the county climaxed a happy and profitable year.
Students in the vicinity of the Little Theatre in early January frequently heard stage directions shouted frantically in English and lines recited hesitantly in French, as Le Cercle Français prepared for its first venture into dramatics. The play, whose title when translated is English As It Is Spoken, is a comedy in the best French tradition, complete with beautiful girl, wealthy matron, suave suitor, and thoroughly French inspector. With a cast composed of French Club members and crews made up of members and friends from the dramatics department, the play was presented to an audience of French students from the high school and junior highs.

In addition to their own experiment in drama, club members attended several French movies, including Molière's comedy, Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme. Now in its second year, the French newspaper, La Voix Francaise, was published each month. Special issues included the Christmas issue and a fall issue devoted to the history and French heritage of old St. Louis. Several speakers on French topics rounded out the club's program.
The Spanish Club devoted itself to gaining a better knowledge of the Spanish language and a better understanding of our neighbors to the south, the Latin American peoples. To gain facility in speaking Spanish, members played a wide variety of language games at meetings. They also adopted the idea of a tutoring service, to help other students in their study of the language.

Special events included a real Mexican Christmas party, complete with Latin music and a pinata, for all the modern language clubs, showing of slides of Latin America, and a special program to celebrate Pan-American Day.

Enthusiastic German Clubbers, under the sponsorship of Miss Fiehler, devoted two afternoons a month to regular meetings, and on alternate weeks, able strategists tackled the game of chess in a club sponsored tournament. The study of the German language and culture was greatly enhanced by German language news films rented from the German Embassy.

Foremost of the club's projects and unique among Webster's language organizations was a venture in active diplomacy organized by members. In order to promote world understanding and gain a better knowledge of the German land and people, the students put their knowledge of the language to work in writing letters to students at the Gymnasium in the East German town of Jena. As they received replies, club members recorded the progress of their pen friendships and exchanged information which their new friends sent.
The primary purpose of this year's Russian Club was to study the Russian language, with particular emphasis on vocabulary, and to become familiar with important facets of Russian history, culture, and politics. To these ends, club members spent many hours struggling over jaw-breaking sounds and complicated inflection with aid of Russian language records. A native Russian speaker augmented their understanding of the Russian people and culture, and particularly, of the Revolution.

As a money raising project, members sponsored a series of international cookie sales in the cafeteria. Social events included a holiday luncheon and a trip to the Jewel Box for a floral display. Filling out a full program was a trip to a Greek Orthodox church in St. Louis.
The Conventus Latinus, one of Webster High's largest organizations, added one hundred and seven new members this year, bringing the total to one hundred and eighty-one enthusiastic Latin Clubbers. At the monthly meetings varied programs were presented—programs such as a talk by Rev. William Watkins of the Webster Groves Presbyterian Church; the showing of slides and a talk by Jennifer Davis, Mary Rankin, and Jim Robison, three of Webster's exchange students; a debate by members of the Cicero classes; a white elephant sale; and a gala Saturnalia (Christmas) party. Club members also raised money for the Farmington Orphanage at Christmas and Easter and attended the Missouri Junior Classical League Convention at University City where they entered a candidate for a state office. In May new officers were elected, and the year was climaxed by the annual spring banquet.

Edited by Roberta Martin and Mary Rankin, the paper included letters from alums, an exchange column, advice from Cartha Marr, jokes, and a Latinized crossword puzzle. Each issue featured special articles, such as a report on the National Junior Classical League Convention at Albuquerque, New Mexico, and information about Roman gods and customs.

Latinus Rumor was sent to many alums and was exchanged with twenty-two Latin papers from schools in over fifteen states.

The Junior Red Cross engaged in a busy year of service and activities. Adult disaster and enrollment films were presented to the student body to kick off the enrollment campaign, which resulted in the largest enrollment in its history. Red Cross members also gave their time assisting in Bloodmobile activities, attending and teaching first aid classes, earning money for the gift chest, and filling Christmas stockings for hospitalized persons.

Several members of our Red Cross organization are also active in the Inter-school Council of the South County. This year Webster High contributed four officers to the council: Mike English, Mike McKee, Jane Fisler, and Lenore Olson, as president, vice-president for program, vice-president for membership, and corresponding secretary, respectively.

The purpose of the non-denominational Youth for Christ Bible Club is to give guidance, inspiration, and fellowship to fellow students. To fulfill this purpose, meetings were held once a week, either before or after school. Bob Woodson, a basketball star of the 1953 Webster championship team and some of the club’s alumni presented two of the programs. Some of the meetings were used for discussions of the Bible, and at others club members told of their own Christian experiences.

Webster's Y.F.C. Bible Club is only one of many such Y.F.C. clubs throughout the nation. Each club has a Bible quiz team which competes for the regional championship and a chance to enter the national meet. Webster's team did very well this year, winning many victories over teams from other schools. Twice a month a city-wide Y.F.C. rally was held to bring all clubs into closer contact with each other.

Meeting every Wednesday after school, the Modern Dance Club sponsored by Mrs. Frick worked all year getting in shape and working up new routines for its final event of the year, the dance concert.

Modern Dance

Instead of just advanced dancers taking part in the concert, as the case has been in past years, all club members presented the program.

No dues were collected for membership in the Modern Dance Club. "Only those who talk have to pay." The money collected was used to buy new records.
In seeking knowledge through the books in the library, Webster students have often received help from the library assistants. Although the library staff has steadily decreased during past years because of increasing pressures in classes, Miss Bynum feels that this year's unusually small staff was one of the best that she has ever worked with. These student librarians spent many of their free periods and much of their time after school checking and shelving books, preparing new copies, collecting fines, and learning many library skills.

In order for members to become better acquainted and to discuss the problems of the library, meetings were held once every two weeks. To increase student interest in becoming a library assistant, this year gold recognition pins were awarded to the diligent assistants.

The club's social events included an annual Christmas party and a spring picnic, which ended a year filled with fun and new experiences.
The work of these girls should be greatly appreciated for they have voluntarily given up a study to help the school administration. They perform many of the tasks necessary to run an efficient school. Delivering announcements, messages, attendance and request slips are a few of their many duties.

A prospective office assistant must have higher than a C average, and must be trustworthy and responsible. While they are doing the school a service, they gain valuable experience useful in the business world.

The school owes a lot to these girls, as they form the nucleus of its communication system.
Girls are interested in sports just as much as boys. The Girls Athletic Association encourages the girls to participate in sports such as hockey, basketball, volleyball, softball, badminton, trampolining, tennis, and bowling.

The G.A.A. requires those who are interested in joining the organization to earn one-hundred points in sports play. After initiation the girls must attend the meetings, pay their dues, and earn fifty points each semester in order to maintain their membership.

The girls gave the school year a kickoff with a dinner for their fathers, better known as "Dad's Night." After eating the dinners which their daughters had prepared for them, the fathers, together with their girls, ended the night with square dancing.

It wouldn't have been fair not to have a counterpart for the mothers, so a Mother-Daughter Banquet was held at the end of the year. The awards for participation in the sports activities were presented to the members at this banquet.

The real highlight of the year was the annual Kampus King Dance, at which one senior boy was chosen as King, and four others as Jacks. The success of the dance culminated another busy year for the members of G.A.A.

Crops in hand, members of the Riding Club, sponsored by Mr. Smith, climbed their mounts twice monthly at Valley Mount Ranch or Babler State Park. Along with riding, these equestriennes held weekly meetings presided over by President Lynn Crump.

The members of the club learned many of the finer points on one of the oldest arts, and had a good time doing it. They were also fortunate in having the opportunity to ride on trails through Missouri's scenic countryside.

Riding Club

The members of the various Hi-Y clubs worked on social activities such as dances and hayrides, as well as earning money for World Service and financing their own programs. Several clubs participated in the Metropolitan Y Council Christmas Basketball Tournament, and a six-man touch football league organized for the Webster clubs.

Representatives from the various clubs were sent to Jefferson City for the Youth and Government Model legislature where they submitted bills that they thought would make good laws.

The three senior Hi-Y clubs were especially busy. With the Kirkwood Hi-Y's they presented a very successful Friendship Dance. They also published the Buzz Book and had a date weekend in the Spring. The junior clubs presented the Date Slate.

Hi-Y

The '61 Tri-Hi-Y's were one of the most active club groups in the community this year. Each of the Tri-Hi-Y's in Webster operates as a separate club unit, but two members represent it on the Youth Council, the overall governing body. In carrying out the purpose of Tri-Hi-Y, "to create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school, and community, high standards of Christian character," the girls did a very thorough job.

The annual activities, the publishing of the Buzz Book and the sale of World Service Mints, were bigger and better than ever. Charity projects included: giving parties at Kingdom House, caroling at old folks homes, and filling Thanksgiving baskets. Social activities were many and varied. One club visited a hair stylist to learn some new styling tricks and ended up with free cosmetics and refreshments.

The biggest program of the year was the Model Legislature at Jefferson City in April. Clubs sent representatives to a local Model Convention in January to elect state officers. These representatives were then eligible to go to Jefferson City and become state senators and representatives. The Youth and Government program is one of the most informative the Y. M. C. A. has to offer, and the Webster Y. Clubs have always been quick to take advantage of this opportunity.
Two new uniforms appeared at the football and basketball games this year. They were proudly worn by the two Varsity Club leaders, Dave Moody and Don Wheeler. The boys wearing black slacks and white sweaters with an orange megaphone presented a picture of peppy spirit as they led cheers.

The Varsity Club combined with the Pep Club in providing a spirited cheering section at all games. It also had its own unique cheers, such as "Ree-rah-ree" and "Iron-em-out," which have received wide acclaim from other schools.

The only uniform required of members was a white shirt. There is no doubt that a uniform body of white shirts has a psychological affect on an opposing team. It shows that the school is united and is especially impressive on televised games.

This was the second year of the Varsity Club, and there are great plans being made for the future. The club, as it demonstrates school spirit, will probably become a great tradition at Webster.

"Beat-em, Statesmen, Beat-em!" was only one of many cheers which the Varsity Pep Club yelled this year. With a record membership of over two hundred twenty-five juniors and seniors, the stands shook with the girls' cries for victory. As is traditional, the center cheering section was reserved for all home football and basketball games.

The old tradition of helium balloons at the Turkey Day game was resumed, and over one hundred various colored balloons were happily thrown into the air as Webster scored its first touchdown.

Since this year has been one in which many new activities have joined with the old traditions, the Varsity Pep Club decided to initiate one of its own. The members appeared in gay orange sweatshirts with the black Webster hat and cane decorating the front of them. This bright atmosphere was the setting for all the games, both at home and away.

Since girls seem to have trouble in understanding some boys' sports, Mr. Melvin courageously came to a meeting to explain the rules of football to the girls. It provided an opportunity for the members to ask questions about the rules and procedure of football so that in the future they would not yell the wrong cheers at the wrong time.

What ever happened to those eerie squeaks and squelches from the sound equipment? The A.V.O. can proudly say that there will be fewer disturbing sounds in the future.

The boys have installed a complete new sound system in the auditorium. They even built their own amplifier. There are eight new speakers distributed over the ceiling for good sound balance.

What if parts of this should break down? The A.V.O. boys will promptly make almost any repair with the help of the test equipment which they built themselves!

The A.V.O. is an organization through which the boys can gain experience in electronics while contributing valuable services to the school. Webster High is proud of the good job of the Audio Visual Operators.

A Cappella Choir, under the direction of Miss Replogle, started off its busy year with a get-together at President Lou Beasley’s house. In the friendly atmosphere typical of this group, the choir enjoyed cokes and a discussion of future plans.

The first month was spent in preparation for various programs presented to the local and neighboring P.T.A. groups, and the sings for Rotary and other service clubs.

The annual Vesper Service was given during the Christmas season in its traditional beauty and splendor. This was followed by the gay Alum party and the school Fun Assembly.

The choir spent the first months of 1961 preparing for their annual spring program, and as always it was a great success. The hard work of the choir throughout the year has again succeeded in making it one of the most outstanding organizations of the school.

With skits and cokes, Beginning Choir started its busy year at an informal get-together, enabling the new choir members and Miss Replogle to become better acquainted with one another. This was followed by many choir sessions in Room 117, where the choir learned how to broaden vowels, use proper breath control, and many of the other things necessary to sound "just right."

After weeks of hard work and rehearsals, Beginning Choir inspired the community in the Christmas Vesper Services with its beautiful presentation of "Vigil" and other carols.

Following the Christmas holidays, Beginning Choir worked on traditional choir songs, and started rehearsals for its part in the spring program.
Webster tradition once again lived on with the presentation of the Christmas Vespers Service for the twenty-ninth consecutive year. For this unique service the high school auditorium was transformed into a church; and A Cappella Choir, Beginning Choir, Boy's Choir, and Angel Chorus sang joyous praises of the Christ Child, as a pageant depicting His birth unfolded.

Vespers was a labor of love for the many people involved. Under the direction of Miss Replogle, all Vesper participants spent many hours in preparing and perfecting a beautiful and majestic service. Members of the cast, which consisted of forty students depicting Biblical characters, spent much time bringing to the shepherd and Nativity scenes an aura of realism. Credit is also deserved by the many people who worked behind the scenes; stage, props, make-up, and light crews all co-operated to make Vespers as flawless and meaningful a pageant as possible.

All those attending and participating in Vespers derived a measure of Christmas Spirit, and were reminded of the true meaning of Christmas.
The A Cappella Choir climaxed its year of activities with an unusual spring program. In previous years the group has either produced an operetta or an assorted group of songs and dances. This year’s presentation, under the direction of Miss Replogle, was a combination of the two.

The first half of the program was a production of Gilbert and Sullivan’s shortest operetta, Trial By Jury. The story concerns the trial of a man who is guilty of breach of promise to marry a pretty young girl named Angelina. The jury is supposed to remain “bias free from every kind,” but Angelina wins the heart of the entire court. The stately judge does not know what to do, so he settles the case by proclaiming that he will marry Angelina himself.

The second half of the program was a group of songs taken from operettas presented by previous A Cappella choirs. Among these songs were such favorites as “Oklahoma,” “Lucky In Love,” and “The Best Things in Life Are Free.”

The Concert Band followed its tradition of fine music with another season of musical achievements. Nicolai Gogotski, the celebrated European conductor who directed the band last year in its presentation of Rhapsody in Blue returned this year to work with the Statesmen on Grieg's Piano Concerto in A Minor, which was presented at the Seventh Annual Pops Concert and to the student body in an assembly. Hubert Drury, pianist with "Jazz Central," also returned to play the piano solo in the performance that was the highlight of the year for the band.

The concert band competed in the St. Louis County Music Festival and contributed several soloists and ensembles along with its own performance. The last big event of the year was the Thirty-sixth Annual Spring Concert in May.

The Statesman Show Band displayed its striking orange uniforms, its precision marching formations, and its spirited playing to fans at the Crystal City, Riverview Gardens, Normandy, and Kirkwood games. The Band members spent much time and effort perfecting their half-time shows and pre-game drills, as evidenced by their muddy pants and lime-covered shoes as they arrived for lunch ten minutes before fifth hour.

The Webster Band was selected to perform at half-time at a Washington University football game along with the University City band and the Washington U. Band. They also led the United Nations Day parade through Webster, and braved the crowd and confusion of the torchlight parade to lead the statesman fans to the bonfire. The pep band increased in size, and added much spirit to the pre-game pep rallies.

This year the orchestra was transformed from a full orchestra to a string organization with an instrumentation of three violins, one viola, one cello, two basses, and sometimes a piano. The group tackled compositions from classical Bach and Vivaldi to modern Benjamin Britten. The orchestra demonstrated their playing at several grade schools, and they participated in a string clinic at Steger in December. In March, they finished their season by competing in the County Solo-Ensemble Festival.

The Diary of Anne Frank, the Dramatics Club’s first offering of the 1960-61 season, is an adaptation by Frances Goodrich and Albert Hackett of the diary kept by a young Jewish girl during the Second World War. As one would expect, the fear and hardships encountered by two Jewish families hiding in an attic in Amsterdam to avoid detection by Nazi police form an ever-present background for the action, but it is not for these that the diary and the play are important. What is important is the vivid portrayal of the love and devotion, the fears and aspirations, the courage and idealism of the girl who could say in the midst of bleak adversity, “I believe that people are really good at heart.”

Transforming the stage of the Little Theatre from an attic in Amsterdam to The Cloisters Rest Home, the ’61 Players prepared to present their second play, The Curious Savage, by John Patrick. Mrs. Savage, the heroine of this improbable farce, has been placed in a rest home by her relatives, who hope to enrich themselves at her expense. To their great dismay, they discover that she has sold all her interests and invested in negotiable bonds, which she has “buried” somewhere. When faced with the possibility of being given a “truth serum,” she confides that she has hidden the bonds in her teddy bear. At this point, one of the eccentric inmates produces a temporary blackout by turning off the lights, and in the ensuing confusion, the teddy bear disappears. Ultimately, the plot is resolved to the satisfaction of Mrs. Savage, and the acute disappointment of her relatives.

Embarking on their first year under a new sponsor, Mrs. Ernestine Smizer, the '61 Players soon found themselves knee deep in properties, costumes, grease paint, and all the other items which contributed to the production of The Diary of Anne Frank, their first major offering of the season. Two other major productions were presented during the year, but life in the Little Theatre was by no means all work. In addition to cast parties following the major plays, members found time to attend a Halloween party and to prepare the theatre for a Christmas party for dramatics club members, journalism students, and teachers of languages and the arts.

When the last of the hundred hours of dramatic work was completed, when the last cry of amusement at his blue and gold beanie had echoed through the corridors, when the five minute monologue was finally over, the long suffering aspirant to dramatic honors breathed a sigh of relief and enjoyed his new found status as a member of the National Thespian Society. In addition to a number of regular Thespians, Webster’s troupe initiated two Honorary Thespians this year: Mrs. Smizer, their new sponsor, and Mr. George Brucker, who sponsored the troupe for a part of last year.

Besides holding initiations of new members, the troupe attended several functions of dramatic interest during the year.

Varsity Football

Webster’s 1960 gridiron squad, coached by Mr. Ray Moss and Mr. Frank Melvin, was a talented and spirited one. Outstanding individual and team performances abounded. The fine running backs—Bill Wisely, Don Rhodes, Jerry Riehl, Chuck Culp, and John McArtor accounted for a large percentage of Webster’s ground gain. Up front, stalwart linesmen Tom Pitts, Bob Reed, Tom Zorumski, Bruce Card, and Barry French “shook the teeth” of the opposition. Louis Beasley, “Skip” Mitsch, and Tom Moir “nailed ‘em down” at the end positions. Quarterbacks Scott Beall and Bill Southworth really kept the ball rolling, with Scott specializing in the ground attack and Bill working in the air.

The season was highlighted by the many good plays turned in by the team. The league opener with Ferguson saw a long drive by Webster in the closing minutes of the game which was stopped only by the clock’s running out. In Webster’s trouncing of Riverview Gardens, Louis Beasley capitalized on a Riverview fumble and turned it into a Webster T.D. The Turkey Day classic was climaxed by long runs by Rhodes, Wisely, and Reese.

The 1960 Webster football team was certainly a success. In sportsmanship, desire, and talent it excelled, and its high spirit never failed. It is a fine team of which the school can be justly proud.
Although the Statesmen had a strong record of 19-8, this does not demonstrate the great potential of the team. The important factor not mentioned by the figures is that the Statesmen played the tremendous Kirkwood team five times. The Statesmen can boast that they cost Kirkwood her only loss. The four losses to Kirkwood had a great psychological disadvantage, but the team maintained a fighting spirit.

Webster had a very good tournament record, taking second to Kirkwood in the Normandy Tournament, Webster Tournament, Mehlville Tournament, and Regionals. Webster placed second in the Big Ten Division.

The team had great strength, both on offense and defense with the combination of tall Don "Twig" Siegmund, and John Martz, and the jumping Ronnie Woods. Coach Yates chose his starting lineup from Siegmund, Woods, Martz, Fredriksen, Adams, and Rhodes.

The future looks bright as top-scoring and rebounding John Martz returns next year with strong Don Rhodes. Homer Drew also showed tremendous potential toward the end of this season. The boys in orange will have to work as Coach Yates predicts a tough league for next year.
Webster's 1960 tennis team under the direction of a new coach, Mr. Boyd, gave another season of good performance. The skill displayed throughout the season culminated in two major achievements. The Webster team outplayed all of the other top teams in this area to win the Suburban League Tournament. Also, Phil Page and Manfred Reetz won the district doubles tournament, and thus qualifying them to compete in the state tournament at Columbia where they played to the semifinals.
The 1961 Varsity Swimming Team, coached by Mr. Fred Boyd, had a very successful season. The team won every dual meet—except the one with Ladue. At the Suburban League Conference Meet the Statesmen swimmers earned a strong second place—behind Ladue. At the close of the season the same result occurred at the state meet where the Webster’s "shark squad" again was second. This pattern was almost upset, however, in the Normandy Relays. There the Statesmen lost a "heartbreaker" to Ladue by one point, Webster again taking second. Individual stars on the Webster team included Steve Gill, Cole Bashford, Bob Johnson, and Jeff Donnan. Steve Gill broke the state record in backstroke, and the medley relay, composed of Steve Gill, Palmer Hartl, John Pope, and Cole Bashford, bettered the old state record by more than two seconds. The 1961 swim team was clearly one of the best produced by Webster.
The wrestling team finished another tough, grueling year. The final of 3-9-1 tells very little about the season. There were a great many new boys and experience counts for a lot in wrestling. The experienced boys did especially well this year. Schroer finished with a 14-2-1 record, Cummings with a 11-2-1 record and Jenne with a 10-1 record in his weight class. The team ran into trouble when a few boys had to wrestle out of their class, but there was plenty of spirit.

Webster sent four boys to the state tournament. Schroer, Cummings, Jenne, and the inexperienced Williams were successful in the District tournaments, and they competed in the state meet.

Coach Bryant feels that wrestling is becoming more popular in all schools and that greater emphasis will be placed on it in the future.

Mr. Bryant expects good results next year from Buchholz, Jenne, Sheuts, and other returning lettermen when they return to the mats.
The 1960 Statesmen baseball team was one of the school's outstanding. Ably coached by Mr. Dick Schuchardt and Mr. Jerry Stepro, the team did the best any Webster baseball team has ever done in the state tournament, winning both the District and Sectional Championships, and fighting its way to the quarterfinals where it was nosed out by Ladue 3-2. The team started slowly, but made a strong finish as it won eight of its last ten games, and ended the season with an overall record of eleven wins, six losses and one tie.

The highlight of the season came in the Sectional Tournament when Webster came from behind with four runs in the last inning to beat Cleveland 12-10. Featured in this exciting game was a grand slam home run by John McArtor.

There were many outstanding performers on the team deserving mention. It was sparked by excellent pitching from John Hotz and Bob Wagner, fielding by Dan Legear and Al McArtor, and by hitting from Bill Southworth, Al McArtor, and captain Ted Winters, who led the team with an impressive .368 average.
The golf team, coached by Mr. Tyke Yates, promises to be even better. Jim Downey, a sophomore, led the team with an outstanding 9-hole average of 40.6, and the averages of the other players ranged close to this score.

Perhaps one of the most popular girls' sports at Webster this year was volleyball. Over two hundred sophomores, juniors, and seniors were enrolled in either intramurals or coaching. Those on coaching worked extra hard so that they might survive the final cuts for the class teams.

Each team practiced serving, spiking, set ups, and co-ordinating the actions of its members.

The taller girls on the teams were envied by those who have so often desired the height needed for good spiking.

As is customary, the varsity team was chosen from the members of the class teams. The varsity met with Clayton, Bayless, Maplewood, and Kirkwood, always displaying the skill and precision necessary for this sport.

Volleyball
"I'll meet you at the alley," is a sinister sounding, but virtually harmless exclamation which is quite commonly shouted every Monday by at least a dozen or more avid G.A.A. members as they pack up their gear and head for bowling at Brentwood Lanes.

Each semester begins a new tournament. The girls are divided into five main teams which are then numbered, the odd and even numbered teams bowling on alternate weeks. To make scoring fair to all it is done on a point system. The winning team is the one with the highest overall average, not just the one with the most wins. There is also a contest for high individual scores.

The first semester high team position went to Chris Kraeger's Team 12. B. J. Wilkening had the highest individual score, upsetting 170 pins.

Girls Basketball

Even though other things have changed this year, the system for girls' basketball remained the same. There were the intramural teams for some girls, while others took skill tests in order to try out for coaching. From the coaching group the sophomore, junior, and senior teams were picked. These teams engaged in intramural play with such schools as Kirkwood, Maplewood, and Ritenour.

The annual Basketball Sports Day highlighted the basketball season. The sophomore and senior teams were defeated, and the juniors emerged as the only victors for Webster. In spite of the losses each class team displayed excellent skill and sportsmanship.

The varsity team was chosen from the outstanding players of each class team. The team, captained by Joan Rasmussen, fought its way to victory three out of four games. Their single loss was to Webster's eternal rival—Kirkwood!
Hockey again proved to be one of the most popular girls' sports at Webster. Anyone can play, no matter how great or small her skill.

For those not so skilled, there are hockey intramurals. These games give girls who like hockey, but do not excel in it, a chance to play just for fun.

For girls who do excel in hockey, coaching is the ideal solution. Old techniques are practiced and new ones are learned as the girls work to improve their abilities. Each is hopeful that she will be chosen for her class team. If she does make the team, there is a chance that she may then be chosen for the Varsity squad.

The sophomore, junior, and senior teams, captained by Pat Fontaine, Barb Bewig, and Judy Sommer, respectively, were handicapped by the bad weather at the beginning of the year. Their losses, however, were greatly overshadowed by the victorious undefeated Varsity Statesmenettes.

"Kill that gopher!"
With softballs, bats, and sun-glasses, last spring sport-minded girls were offered a final opportunity to show their ability by joining either an intramural team or a coaching group.

Many girls participated in intramurals and received fifty points toward a G.A.A. award. From the girls participating in coaching, the class teams were chosen and each girl on these teams earned an extra one hundred points. The varsity team, consisting of the best players on the class teams, began its games after the class team results were tallied. The members on this team received another fifty points.

Because of rainy weather, the teams only played two games, with all teams losing to Kirkwood, the sophomores beating Ritenour, the juniors losing, and the seniors tying. The year ended on a victorious note with the varsity defeating John Burroughs.

The James T. Hixson Award

The Hixson Award was established by the Student Council of 1954-1955 in honor of Mr. James T. Hixson, Principal of Webster Groves High School for 36 years. The award is active for ten years and in each of those years is to recognize a senior girl and a senior boy for outstanding ability in each of four areas, scholarship, leadership, service, and sportsmanship. The winners are announced at an assembly in May. Each winner receives an engraved certificate, and his name is inscribed on a trophy which is the permanent property of the high school. Mr. Hixson, himself, presented the awards for the first five years.

To be eligible for an award a senior must have maintained at least a 2.0 scholastic average for seven semesters and must have been a student at Webster Groves High School for his junior and senior years.

The Scholarship Award is given to the highest ranking girl and boy in the graduating class.

For the Leadership Award and the Service Award five girls and five boys are nominated for each award by the members of the senior class. From these two lists faculty committees choose the winners.

From the list of major lettermen the members of the senior class nominate five boys for the Sportsmanship Award. A faculty committee selects the winner. From the list of girls who have earned at least a thousand points in athletics nominate five girls. A faculty committee chooses the winner.

Re: Investigation of a Typical High School

Dear J. B.:

My investigations at Webster Groves High School have uncovered some extraordinary and interesting data concerning the typical American high school. In addition, I have discovered some unique characters for use in further productions. I shall relate my experiences, and from these you may select the appropriate incidents for the movie.

The nature of my work required that my identity remain unrevealed, and I was compelled to assume the attire of a teenager. Carefully examining the actions of students, I performed the ritual of leaving my cigarette at the curb. As I entered the front door of the school I was suddenly engulfed by a wave of student bodies and carried by the tide down the hall.

As I settled down it came to my attention that the students were dividing themselves into pre-determined groups situating themselves on assigned radiators, in the Big Study Hall, or in any available space. A certain number even found it necessary to sit on the church wall across the street. Before I could decide which group to join, the bell rang and in a few minutes I was alone.

Very gradually I acquired a schedule of classes which I wrote on several cards. These were sent to the Office, Guidance Council, Cafeteria, Counsellors, Principals, a Miss Bopp, a Mr. Yates, a Mr. Smith, the Nurse, the Student Council, and the library. The first few days, I was well treated because I was a new student and it was the thing to do. However, after a certain incubation period, I was turned out on my own without a clique in the world to help me.

There came a day when I could uncover no more unless I was “in” with a certain class of students. There was a great variety of fields from which to choose. There were two main kingdoms, the Studentus Inofits and the Studentus Outofits. The Outofits are rapidly becoming extinct and are referred to in such vulgar terms as “individuals.” The Inofits are classified into Phyla each of which considers the others as Outofits. These Phyla include in order of social esteem: The Studentus Neatus, the Studentus SubNeatus, the Studentus SubSubNeatus, the Studentus Hoodus, and last, the Studentus Intellectualus. The Studentus Neatus is divided into three classes, the Studentus Joinus, the Studentus Athleticus, and the Studentus Cheerleadius. The system of binomial nomenclature seems complicated to an outsider, but the students have homing devices which enable them to find their group even in large crowds.

Webster Groves High School was surrounded in a whirl of activities, each with its own character that lent life and change from academic activities. It is a shame that academic subjects often interfered with extracurricular activities, but they do have a part in personal development and look good on college applications.

For the member of the Phylum Studentus Joinus, there were various activities from which to choose. Each had its own social position, which could not be destroyed. Certain positions are elected such as Student Council, Guidance Council, and Cheerleader. Some require skill, endurance, hard practice and good looks, such as basketball, or football. There are Thespians, Potpourri, Latin Club, and language newspapers. There are the two publications, The Echo and The Webster Echo, which differ as greatly as their names imply. A certain group prefers initials, Y.F.C., A.V.O., M.A.Φ., F.T.A., N.F.L., and V.P.S.G. A prominent authority expressed the opinion that the students were “joiners,” not “doers.” He wants students to settle down. Besides, Webster is a three year school.

A singing group of "chore-caliber" at certain seasons seemed moved by a mysterious force. This force seemed to control the entire school in December and early spring. A great number of students fell asleep in class, in the hall, and even in the lunch line. At times, even the under-privileged stage and light crews in their ripped and dirty attire acquired the title of "chore-caliber."

Various entertaining assemblies served to break up the school day. There was the "adventures of Samantha Salesman," a musical, followed by a similar sequel. There were a talent assembly, orchestra assembly, election assemblies, informative assemblies, Student Council assemblies, frank assemblies, and humorous assemblies. In accordance with one honor system, there was no need for faculty members to take disciplinary action at the assemblies. Besides, Webster is a three year school.

Several unique dances were presented many of which included the presentation of a queen or king. There was the Echo Coronation, Paper Doll Prom, Jabberwocky, Friendship Dance, and Kampus King. All members of the kingdom Studentus Inofits are eligible for selection. All dances are held in the beautiful gymnasium of course, since Webster is a three year school.

I had prepared some information on special days. However, mention of Slob Day and Tie Day can not be printed, for it will interfere with Semester Tests. Besides, Webster is a three year school.

I cannot forget the group of students that was the most interesting of all. They were burdened with activities, academic work, and college applications. They are known as Seniors. This group was continually planning ahead. Each accomplishment laid open a new accomplishment. Each student looked excitedly but sadly toward the day when he would graduate. They were thinking of last minute criticisms of teachers who in a few years will be fondly remembered. Long live the Seniors!

But the most valuable data collected was the list of possible characters for future productions. It will, however, take some tremendous acting to duplicate the live individuals. It may be necessary to incorporate the talents of certain Webster students who have become adept at imitating their teachers. I have included a list of the characters with their descriptions. The names have been changed to protect the guilty.

George Precision—youthful young man; wears sweater and bow tie with an elegant structure; very excellent proof of character.

Mr. Quick—tall, but speedy; will give no charge for services.

Fred Sharksquad—he is because he is; good narrator of loves between subshells caused by Van der Wall attraction.

Mr. Pendle Newton—man of good intentions, should settle down more; teaches math in spare time.

Mr. Robert Kay—out of work because honor system will not allow monitors in lunch room; excellent performer in assemblies.

Miss Rep Choir—mysterious force.

Yvonne Blondie—? (impossible to duplicate).

Bernardine—Some say she is, but others disagree. It's their right to disagree. Now Don!

Leaping Lewis—I kid you not, a tall handsome, basketball player, recently promoted to dull sergeant.

Hazel Kay—(No relation to Robert Kay); receives recognition from alums; picks the best in her classes.

Sincerely yours,
Agent "X"
